

For Immediate Release

Grafton, MA – October 25th, 2005 - CogniScent Inc announced today a Phase II award from the Department of Homeland Security continuing its participation in the Lightweight Autonomous Chemical Investigation System (LACIS) program/

This contract enables CogniScent to continue to develop its technology and will assist first responders in their quest for low cost, simple yet comprehensive tools for toxic chemical identification

About CogniScent, Inc.

Based in Grafton MA, CogniScent Inc is an early stage company developing high performance odor detection devices capable of detecting and identifying odors at low vapor pressure and low concentrations. Its devices are being developed for use in security and defense application as well as industrial process industries.